This Behavior Institute is designed for educators with prior experience with the FBA/BIP process who want to improve administration.

The session will include a brief overview of FBA/BIP implementation and the factors that shape the way FBAs and BIPs are perceived and utilized, as well as research findings from a sample of North Carolina FBAs, BIPs, and progress monitoring data for students supported by the PRC 29 grant. The findings highlight strengths and challenges of implementation, key components missing from the FBAs/BIPs, and the potential impact on improving student behavior.

Participants will explore the key components of FBAs and BIPs, practice evaluating FBAs/BIPs, and investigate different ways to support progress monitoring. Participants will leave with tools for evaluating FBAs/BIPs and a tool to help track student progress.

All participants are asked to bring a copy of a recent FBA, BIP, and most recent progress monitoring data for a select student served.

EC Directors, Behavioral Liaisons, Behavioral Specialists, and Behavior Support Teachers are invited
